The Week in Oxford County

Blood was rushed from a Berlin hospital for an Upton baby, who is at Children's Hospital in Boston, last Thursday when the hospital authorities said it was needed to save the baby's life. The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Douglass, born Sunday May 6, was suffering from an R H condition.

A log cabin owned by Venas Morse of North Norway was destroyed by fire Friday morning. No telephone within two miles caused delay of notifying the firemen, but when they arrived they prevented the blaze from spreading to nearby woods. The loss was estimated at between $4000 and $5000 with no insurance.

Lauren Marston of Hebron was hospitalized Sunday after he suffered a possible concussion and lacerations of the face in an accident at the Oxford Plains Speedway. The accident occurred during the last race. His car overturned once without any injury to the driver, then continued around the track overturning again in practically the same place in front of the grandstands. Mr. Marston owns a large turkey farm in Hebron.

11-months-old Wallace Farnum, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Farnum of Hale was found strangled about 5 o'clock Monday by his grandmother, Mrs. Thelma Hickey, who was caring for him while his parents worked. The doctor said the child had apparently wrapped a length of string around his neck, and then had fallen forward, causing the string to tighten.

Among those receiving scholarships at the University of Maine this week were: Howard Waterhouse, Bethel; Charles W. Woodman, Bethel; Rodney B. Harrington, Bethel; Merle L. Noyes, Locke Mills; Helen B. Hemingway Memorial Scholarship. These boys were all members of the Gould Academy class of 1950.

70-year-old Harry Marsh of Dixfield was hospitalized at Rumford Tuesday night after his car crashed into a telephone pole on Weld st. The doctor said Mr. Marsh was in good condition, suffering only from a concussion. The car was damaged extensively. It was thought the car was in a ditch, which extends half-way across the street, then veered back to the pole.

Donald Truman of Norway suffered three fractured vertebrae Wednesday when he was helping unload new cars from a freight car. He was taken to the C. M. G. Hospital in Lewiston where he was treated. He was reported in good condition.

West Parish Installation Service Planned May 28

A service of installation for the Reverend Charles L. Pendleton, pastor of West Parish Congregational Church, will be held at the church on Monday, May 28th. This meeting will be followed by a Fellowship Supper, tickets for which may be reserved by calling Mrs. Harry Kuzik on or before Wednesday, May 23. ## Brown Co. Guests To View Industry

Two hundred guests, including the governors of Maine, Vermont, and New Hampshire have been invited to participate in a 100-mile jaunt through the woods next Wednesday while officials of the Brown Company show them how it is being proven that over a million and a half acres can be taken out of a small section of nearby forest each year without destroying or damaging the woodlands.

The occasion will be a woodlands field trip during which the guests, including state and federal officials, business leaders and university professors, and others from all parts of New England will witness the spectacular start of a two-pronged log drive. With appropriate ceremonies President Laurence F. Whittemore of the Brown Company will start 15,000 cords of 4-foot pulpmo logs tumbling down the 50-foot drop over Aziscoos Dam into the Magalloway River. Later in the trip the guests on the unique party will see the start of a drive of 16-foot high grade white pine logs through the sluiceways of Middle Dam on Richardson Lake into Rapid River. It will, incidentally, be the first time in more than 35 years that a big log drive has gone down Rapid River. Both the drives will be destined to end in the Androscoggin River, flowing past the huge mills of Brown Company in Berlin where this year the maws of machinery will chew up 400,000 cords of woods from nearby forests in New Hampshire, Vermont, and Maine.

Assembling at Errol, N. H., at 9:30 next Wednesday morning the party will travel by automobile, boat and on foot, while C. S. Herr, Resident Woods Manager of Brown Company and other officials of the company will demonstrate "The Miracle of New England's Woods." Brown Company officials will explain to the guests of New England trees are now being converted into more than 100 things for home and for industry, from sewer pipe to lady's handbags, and from wedding invitations to towels for coats. Both complete and preliminary production of the novel and unusual things now being made from trees is being done at the Brown Company's New England plant located at Berlin.

The theme of the trip will be a demonstration in the field to show how the Brown Company's successful plan of forest management now assures a constant supply of both hard and softwood trees by replacement of a "tree for a tree" on the 550,000 acres which the Brown Company owns in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. The guests will also learn how, through free distribution of seedling trees, the Brown Company has successfully started the some modern forest management on privately owned woodlots in the three states from which the company will purchase about 200,000 cords of pulpmo wood this year, paying New England woodlot owners about $1,000,000 for the trees the private owners cut, and spending another $2,000,000 to get the wood to the big mills in Berlin by truck and railroad.

From Errol the party next Wednesday will proceed into Maine and up through Adamstown, Magalloway and Lincoln Plantations, then across the 12-mile stretch of Richardson Lake to Middle Dam where a luncheon will be served at Lake Adams Camp. The trip will be marked by frequent stops as experts of the Brown Company forces show the guests various areas where Brown Company forest management has resulted in replacement of trees allowing frequent rotation cutting with complete protection to the forests and also retention of the water-holding capacity of the soil.

HONOR WAR DEAD, URGES LEGION COMMANDER

An appeal to all patriotic citizens to wear a poppy on Poppy Day, May 26, in memory of those who have given their lives in America's defense was issued today by Robert H. McMillin, Commander of the Mount-Allen Post of The American Legion.

Memorial poppies will be distributed on the streets throughout the day by members of the Mount-Allen Post. Those who will receive the poppies are the children of war veterans and needy children of veterans. The red poppy paper poppies have been made by veterans at Triggs Main.

In his Poppy Day appeal Commander McMillin said:

"With young Americans again dying in defense of the principles of freedom for which America stands and with our country again mobilizing to prevent new aggression and war it is fitting that every American remember those who have given their lives in the nation's service by wearing their flower the memorial poppy, or Poppy Day Wearing a poppy is the way for every patriotic citizen to show that he honors the memory of the nation's war dead."

"While honoring the dead we should also think of those who are disabled as a result of their war service and the children of the dead and disabled who are in need because of their fathers' sacrifice. Contributing money in exchange for the poppies will bring help and hope to these living victims of America's war. Everyone should be as generous as his means permit when he puts on a memorial poppy."

*"No, thanks,
...I'm driving"*

Smart man!

He keeps his car in safe driving condition...and he keeps himself in condition to drive it safely.

Are you one of those drivers who honestly believe that a drink or two can have no effect on your driving ability? The fact is that just one or two drinks is enough to make an otherwise safe driver a very real danger to himself and others.

The records are full of statistics proving that drinking drivers are three or four times more likely to have an accident than those who do not drink. You may be far from drunk—you may not even 'feel' your drink—but the unavoidable result of drinking even a small amount of alcohol is to impair your judgment and slow up your reactions. You may think you are just as 'quick on the trigger' after a drink or so, but medical science says you're not.

This impairment of your judgment and reactions may be measured in split-seconds, but split-seconds are ages in emergencies. So why court unnecessary danger? There's no point in arguing with alcoholic beverages...you can't win. You'll be wiser—and far safer—to pass up the drink and step into your car with the serene assurance that your driving is absolutely under your own control.

"Much of the misery caused by drinking drivers is due to the men and women who 'wouldn't think of driving when I'm drunk.' To these thousands there is no danger in driving after one or two, or 'a few' drinks. It is they, not the stumbling drunk, who kill and cripple. Call it 'right,' 'feeling good,' or 'drunk,' it really doesn't matter. What does matter is that your reaction, your perception, your attitude are all changed after one or two drinks."

resulting graft and civic corruption possible as well.

The committee offers 22 specific recommendations where the Federal government might aid in crime prevention. These include tightening up the immigration laws to make it easier to get rid of alien mobsters, a ban on the interstate transmission of gambling information, establishment of a Federal crime commission, and so on. However, it comes to the definite conclusion that crime is a local problem, which "must be attacked primarily at the local level, with supplementary aid, where appropriate, from state and Federal authorities."

This country has witnessed many a crime investigation, but Senator Kefauver's committee was the first to operate on a national scale. It has dredged up an enormous and shocking amount of information. Now it remains to be seen what the various units of government, and the people, will do about it.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMES

From A. V. Harbour, Nathalie, Va.: When I was a little girl, women took 10 yards of cloth to make a dress. Baby dresses were so long they touched the ground when the mother stood holding the baby. They would kill cows and take hide to tan yard to get leather made, with which to make shoes at home with a needle and thread, using wooden pegs to put on soles.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, W. Va.: Do you remember when April 1 was moving day, hay fever was called "a summer cold," a man could buy an umbrella for a dollar, folks had oranges only at Christmas, people believed you got warts from touching a toad, mosquito netting protected victrols left on the dining room table?

From Mrs. Henry Mease, Little, Pa.: I remember the farmers and butchers leaving their houses all the year round at 2:00 a.m. to attend inside and curb market the greater part of the day, traveling 10 or 20 miles by horse-drawn market wagon. Independence Day was a gala event, and folks hired a livery team called a Tally-ho with two or four horses hitched to the wagon decorated for the occasion, with the driver on an elevated seat, to go to the gala celebrations, sometimes 20 miles away.

From Bertha L. DeVos, Hermosa Beach, Calif.: I remember when we kids got only one pair of shoes a year, going barefoot most of the summer except to church. We would carry our shoes until we got almost to the church, then put them on. When we left church, we took them off and carried them home. This way we could wear them all winter to school.

From Mrs. Nellie Dennis, Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when the boy friend was expected to remain at the girl's home until she signified the evening was over. Otherwise it would look like the boy was tired of her company.

From Mrs. Nellie Walters, Angola, Ind.: When things were scarce, it was a common saying, "As scarce as hen's teeth." Anything dainty was described "as fine as a frog's hair." And a complaining man often said, "You can't tell by the looks of a frog how far he can jump." An old maxim was, "A man of words and not of deeds is like a garden full of weeds."

EASY DOES IT

Silk and other materials will not gather while you run them through the sewing machine if you place tissue paper underneath them while sewing. The paper is pulled off easily after the stitching is done.

To make even hems, cut a piece of cardboard the size of the hem and use it as a marker, slipping the card in as you hem and moving it along as you work.

When you have to hold a piece of sewing fabric, use a brick which has been padded. Keep it in the sewing room at part of your equipment.

Scissors which are not too dull can be sharpened at home by cutting several strips of sandpaper with them.

Nobody's Business

The behavior of bicycle riders is beyond understanding, at least beyond that of the drivers of cars and trucks—and pedestrians. The drivers have to be in the latter group occasionally, so we are all puzzled. It is a fact that on crowded highways, village streets or country roads, bicyclists are where you find them—operating with the unpredictable judgment of huns by a roadside.

One cyclist may ride on the right or left. If on the left, an approaching driver may assume that he may attempt to return to the right side. Two riders are likely to be side by side and have been known to spread to the right and left when meeting cars or being overtaken. More bikes at one time are no better.

Bicycles on the Bethel village sidewalks are prohibited by law.

If parents have no interest in the safety habits of their bicycling children, it would be a good subject for discussion and instruction in the town schools. We should have teachers qualified to do this. The automobile driving course at Gould Academy this year evidently has been practical and successful.

The scarlet fever epidemic, which was our source of irritation last week, seems to be slowing a bit. Still many children are out of school awaiting the OK of a physician's certificate before returning. Members of families having stricken ones have in some cases been conspicuous by clinging to their customary habits of mingling with friends and the public in general. Books from the local library have circulated as usual, providing another haven for germs of this pestilence for a long time. Let us hope that the vigilance of parents and doctors will minimize the ravage of this disease and its serious consequences.

LIONS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At the meeting of the Bethel Lions Club Monday evening the following officers were elected:

President, Richard Davis; first vice-president, Walter Tikander; second vice-president, John H. Carter; third vice-president, Henry H. Hastings; secretary, Murray Thurston; treasurer, Herbert Marton, Jr.; hon. tamer, Guy Gibbs; directors, Eugene Van Den Kerckhoven, Sam Smith, Hugh Thurston and Earl Davis.

Leslie Davis gave an account of his trip to Mexico. Ralph Young and B. L. LeChair will be in charge of the program for the next meeting on May 23.

New Commissioner Learns Maine Sportsmen's Needs

Inland Fisheries and Game Commissioner Roland H. Cobb is making a sincere attempt to learn the needs and wishes of everybody interested in hunting and fishing in Maine. His office is accumulating an appreciable amount of information of this nature and, from the sum total, he hopes to formulate conservation policies which will justify his program for the administration of Fish and Game.

With this end in mind, he has held meetings with representatives of sportsmen's clubs, with fisheries and game biologists, with rod and gun newspaper writers, and, more recently, with sporting camp operators from all parts of Maine.

Each group has voiced opinions and while there naturally is some conflict of ideas this difference of opinion is no greater than is found in an eventful, workable, sound conservation program—best for the most people—is to be formulated.

The sporting camp owners, for example, found at the recent meeting in the State House that they have individual problems themselves and that they do not all have the same needs to guarantee continued successful operation of their camps.

Those in some sections of Maine believe the black bass is a fish which could help solve their problems, while other camp owners believe firmly that they must have good trout and salmon fishing to stay in business. It became evident that this question of which species of fish is the best for individual camp owners, is one of geographical location in Maine, or, very largely so. Some operators state that their peak of business comes in the mid-summer and that, without good bass fishing to satisfy their non-resident sportsmen, they would be doomed to failure.

It long has been true that many Maine residents do not care greatly for the black bass as a fish and that they prefer to fish for trout and salmon instead. However, more Maine people are beginning to enjoy bass fishing every year and while the question of bass versus salmon and trout will continue to be a Department headache for years, without doubt, it is not inconceivable that some reasonably satisfactory solution will be arrived at eventually that will be agreeable to both resident sportsmen and the camp owners who depend for their livelihood on the non-resident angler.

It is because questions of this nature continually arise, that the Commissioner of Fisheries and Game wants to record the viewpoints of everybody interested in fishing and hunting. In the comparative short time since his appointment, he has traveled over much of Maine and talked to sportsmen's clubs and similar groups. He has listened to their viewpoints in informal discussions afterwards.

The administration of Fish and Game thus becomes a full-time, around-the-clock job with the Commissioner occupying a position similar to that of a president of a large concern and with the sportsmen, camp operators and others assuming the role of stockholder. The Commissioner believes a majority opinion of these "stockholders" should guide his administration of their business.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Tyndall, S. D., Tribune and Register: "A short time ago we remarked that the Federal government was adding a lot of new employees, without knowing at the time just how the figures were running. We have these figures now to substantiate the statement: The Federal government added 60,594 employees to the payroll in January—more than 2,000 per day. It doesn't add up to a program of economy in government spending."

Sheldon, Iowa, Mail: "A twenty per cent tax upon advertising would kill many mercantile businesses and undoubtedly kill the majority of newspapers and magazines."

resident angler.

It is because questions of this nature continually arise, that the Commissioner of Fisheries and Game wants to record the viewpoints of everybody interested in fishing and hunting. In the comparative short time since his appointment, he has traveled over much of Maine and talked to sportsmen's clubs and similar groups. He has listened to their viewpoints in informal discussions afterwards.

The administration of Fish and Game thus becomes a full-time, around-the-clock job with the Commissioner occupying a position similar to that of a president of a large concern and with the sportsmen, camp operators and others assuming the role of stockholder. The Commissioner believes a majority opinion of these "stockholders" should guide his administration of their business.
